Keinweber, superintendent of streets.

Cost of the project, estimated at $87,000, will be divided with 50 percent to be paid by property owners and 50 percent by the city. The city will pick up total cost of intersections.

Council Monday approved legislation allowing the city to issue $90,000 in bonds to pay the city's and owners' portions. The bond issue is in anticipation of special assessment levies on the 171 property owners.

Improvements of the streets will include resurfacing with

Olivewood to Robinwood Avenues, estimated to cost $5815; Clarence Avenue from Madison to Athens Avenue, $24,580; Fries Avenue from Riverside Drive to Larchmont Avenue, $20,337; Nelson Street from Cannon Street to the north end at Norfolk and Western Railway, $3506; and Parkwood Avenue from Franklin Boulevard to Madison Avenue, $32,269.

Upon recommendation of Councilman Mark R. Magnotto, resurfacing of Roosevelt Avenue from Madison to Cedarwood Avenue, was deferred for this year because it was in satisfactory condition.

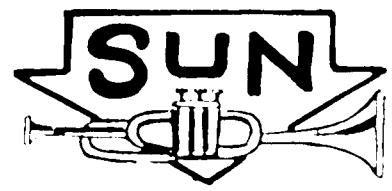

Bids on the five-street resurfacing project will be opened July 7.

What's a poor poodle to do?

Council officially banned canines from all public parks in Lakewood Monday night.

City ordinance now forbids all dogs, including those on leashes, from entering the parks. Owners, however, will be the ones responsible for the misdemeanor fines.
